MESSRS. METHUEN'S NEW BOOKS

REMAINS OF THE PREHISTORIC AGE IN ENGLAND. By B. C. A. WINDLE, D.Sc., F.R.S. With numerous Illustrations and Plans. Demy 8vo. 7s. 6d. net. [Antiquary's Books.

This book is intended to give an account of the present state of knowledge respecting the relics of prehistoric man in this country. Though chiefly dealing with objects found in England, where necessary descriptions have been given of discoveries made in other parts of the kingdom and of the world. The object of the writer has been to confine himself, as far as possible, to ascertained facts and to leave theories aside, but matters of present controversy, such as the question of eoliths and that of the transition between the Palæolithic and Neolithic periods, have been fully dealt with. Lists of the most important objects of large size have been added to the chapters dealing with them, and there is also a list of museums in this country in which collections of the smaller objects are on view. The book is illustrated by nearly one hundred figures, all of which have been specially drawn for it, and most of which have not previously appeared elsewhere.

ENGLISH MONASTIC LIFE. By the Right Rev. ABBOT GASQUET, O.S.B. Demy 8vo, 7s. 6d. net. [Antiquary's Books.

"The publishers have been fortunate in securing the services of the Rev. Dr. Cox, one of the most learned and painstaking of antiquaries, as general editor of the series, and they have been equally fortunate that a subject such as monastic life should have been dealt with by Abbot Gasquet, than whom there is no greater authority. Antiquarian books too often are as dry as matchwood, but there is no reason why they should be so, and the present volume abundantly testifies to this. The learned abbot has throughout written his history in a popular and attractive manner. He is never wearisome, but, on the contrary, invariably entertaining, and, what is of more consequence, always informing."—Birmingham Post.

THE NEW FOREST. By HORACE G. HUTCHINSON. Illustrated in Colour with 50 Pictures by WALTER TYNDALE and 4 by LUCY KEMP-WELCH. Large demy 8vo. 21s. net.

"The Cigarette of Distinction."

We claim that the "Craven" Cigarettes are distinct in every way from all others heretofore offered to the Public.

By the process of manufacture, dust is entirely eliminated, and the strands of Tobacco being parallel and not massed together as in the ordinary way, the Cigarette draws more freely, is superior in smoking qualities, and more palatable.

The Tobaccos used in the composition of the Mixture are the finest Oriental and American growths, well matured, and free from scent or artificial flavouring.

To judge two different kinds of Cigarettes, the two should be lighted together and smoked alternately.
